The name "Wanneroo" means a woman's digging stick. Before European settlers came in the 1850's, Whadjuk Aborigines of the Nyoongar nation roamed on the coastal plains, camping around our local lakes during summer. Dairy farmers milked cows by hand, grew fruit and vegetables, as well as crops for hay to feed their animals during the long, hot, dry summers. There were no shops, only sand tracks through the bush to the nearest Perth shop, six hours away! The farmers made their own butter, bread, cheese and anything else they could. They also built 'Hessian Bag Houses' and four-roomed cottages from local limestone. Only fourteen students attended the first school in 1899.

Handwriting (10 to 12 years)

Awards: Wanneroo Agricultural Society Award for Best Exhibit class 4-69.

- 4-69 Cursive writing in pen or ink, Write in pen or ink only. Can be mounted on light card (not framed) not exceeding A4 size.
Three waves of migrants settled in Wanneroo during the early 1900s: Italians, Yugoslavs from Croatia and Macedonians. They were brilliant market gardeners and developed the 'food bowl of the north' starting out by a natural spring at Pappas swamp, near Yanchep. Farmers took their horse-drawn wagons to Perth, leaving at midnight with vegetables for the Monday market. While there, they would buy flour from the South Perth mill and be home for dinner.

Later, as the population grew, the Wanneroo Road Board was formed in 1903 to facilitate necessary infrastructure to accommodate the new residents. This included roads, shops, a Garage to service vehicles, and a Hall for community Dances and films. Our Wanneroo Show commenced in 1909.

Handwriting (13 to 16 years)

Awards: Wanneroo Agricultural Society Award for Best Exhibit class 5-75.

- 5-75 Cursive writing in pen or ink, Write in pen or ink only. Can be mounted on light card (not framed) not exceeding A4 size. The substantial Tamala limestone layer has matured, over time, into an extensive cave system along our Western Australian coastline. Kilns were built to burn limestone for liquid lime and roadbase. Wanneroo has the only traditionally working limestone kiln in Australia today. In the 1950s, with the connection to electricity, Wanneroo's population expanded to become the fastest-growing city in all of Australia during the early 2000s! Our demographic changed, too, as we welcomed a kaleidoscope of folk from interstate and internationally, especially during the mining boom. The British and Irish keep coming, South Africans, Africans, ASians including many Vietnamese, Indians, New Zealanders and Pacific Islanders, as well as our neighbours from South East Asia and some from the Middle East. In fact, Wanneroo has become a global microcosm embracing a vast, vibrant community spirit.
